

To the Anteater Community:

An emergency response training drill will take place at Rowland Hall on the UCI campus on Wednesday, March 13, from approximately 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The training drill will be conducted by UCI Emergency Management in conjunction with the School of Physical Sciences, the Orange County Fire Authority and the Newport Beach Fire Department.

If you are in the vicinity of Rowland Hall during the drill, please be aware of the potential for moving fire trucks or other emergency apparatus, and exercise caution. The drill area will be clearly marked and access to the area will be reserved for exercise players only.

However, normal functions at Rowland Hall will continue during the exercise. And anyone with business in the hall during the drill will be allowed into the building.

We apologize for any inconvenience and appreciate your patience and understanding as we conduct this training drill. Please reply to this email with any questions.

Sincerely,

Randy Styner
Director of Emergency Management
